

THE GLOUCESTER DAILY TIMES Thursday, July 20, 2006

Marine studies

MIKE DEAN/Staff photo

A marine sciences field trip was hosted by the Gloucester Maritime Heritage Center for children in the Summer of Discovery program at North Shore Community College. Here, David DeAngelo of Revere, 9, bottom, and camp counselor Dominic Bavaro, 16, look at marine life taken from the water collected by the children at the Heritage Center. The program will host a weeklong program for children featuring hands-on projects involving marine science, local history and art. The program will run Aug. 14 to 18 and cost $125 per student. For information, call the Heritage Center at 978-281-0470.